BE BRAVE. BE BOLD.

*"It matters not how strait the gate,
How charged with punishments the scroll,
I am the master of my fate,
I am the captain of my soul" - Invictus*

Twelve-year-old Tybre Faw said these inspiring words with tear-filled eyes as he spoke at the funeral of civil rights icon John Lewis. "Get in good trouble," Lewis would say, "when you see bad, do good." These words would lead him across the Edmund Pettus bridge with Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and send him to the hospital with a skull fracture, just one of many injuries he sustained in the fight for equal rights. Be Brave. Be Bold.

We have seen incredible bravery over the past months, from those who can't simply work from home or take a sick day. Doctors and nurses who have made extraordinary sacrifices to treat the stricken, truck drivers who have continued to deliver needed goods, first responders who have continued to serve and protect, and critical manufacturing sectors that must keep production running. At CIE Manufacturing, we are extremely proud of all of our workers deemed essential during this time of crisis who have come to work each day to do their part to keep the transportation industry moving.

FRONT LINE WORKERS

What keeps these modern-day heroes going back day after day and night after night, leaving their families to help those in need despite their fear? It is a mix of conviction, dedication and professionalism, an indomitable human spirit and will to see their duty through despite the sacrifice. It is this bravery and boldness that will lead to a medical breakthrough, a vaccine, and an end to this pandemic.

OVERCOMING OBSTACLES

In our lives, we all have bridges to cross and opportunities to show our bravery. Will they be as historically and socially significant as the Edmund Pettus bridge? Probably not, but nonetheless they are our obstacles to overcome, and overcome them we must in order to grow, and be better for the struggle. We are indeed the masters of our fate and the captains of our soul, the pioneers and trailblazers of our own frontiers. And because of this the future has never looked so bright.

THEY ARE OUR OBSTACLES TO OVERCOME, AND OVERCOME THEM WE MUST.....WE WILL MAKE IT THROUGH, WE ALWAYS DO.

FINAL THOUGHTS

So, as summer ends, and fall arrives, and the world seems so very complicated, simply remember this: Be Brave. Be Bold. And when you see bad, Do Good.

DO GOOD
